

O1 - Literature Searching Scenario – Living with Breast Cancer

You have recently joined a systematic review project which has been commissioned to examine the experience of breast cancer patients, especially as described in the nursing and caring literature. A particular focus of the project is to examine breast cancer from the perspective of suffering.

Construct a literature search strategy to identify primary qualitative studies that might be included in your review.

Start with a focused question:

S
P
I
C
E

And identify search terms:

--

Record the Title, Journal and Year for one potentially included study:

--

O2 - Literature Searching Scenario – Being a Teen Mother

As preparation for a research bid for a randomised controlled trial of an educational intervention with teenage mothers you are conducting a qualitative systematic review of how adolescents feel during pregnancy. You are particularly interested in the types of nursing interventions that can be developed to help teen mothers.

Construct a literature search strategy to identify primary qualitative studies that might be included in your review.

Start with a focused question:

S
P
I
C
E

And identify search terms:

--

Record the Title, Journal and Year for one potentially included study:

--